DEAR EDITOR—You will please find enclosed 50c., for which you may send me your valuable paper for the next six months, as I think it the best paper for the mountains of Kentucky ever published. Hoping you will confer a favor by sending it in the next mail, I remain, respectfully, A. J. ADAMS. Zachariah, Jan. 25, 1892.

Miss Laura Rawlings, who has been a citizen of Hazel Green for a year or so past, and who has made legions of friends here, left Tuesday morning for her home in Covington, Ky., having been called to the bedside of her brother, who is seriously ill. Miss Laura will be sadly missed in the social circle, and many will be the regrets that she could not content herself to remain with us. Warm hearts wish her all the joys allotted to mortals, and the hope is expressed that she may again return to us.

Read the new advertisement of George W. Robinson, dealer in general merchandise, Campton, Ky., which appears in this issue of our paper. Mr. Robinson is so well known to a majority of our readers as a square dealing and accommodating merchant that any word of praise from us will be superfluous. He has, however, just now embarked in business on his own hook, has a brand new house and new stock of goods, and as he is selling for the cash in hand, those who patronize him will save money. Read his ad. carefully and give him a call.

Bertha, the 10-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ringo, died Tuesday evening of typhoid fever. She was an exceedingly bright little girl, and the blow is a severe one to her mother, whose heart was already surcharged with sorrows. The family have the sympathy of the community in their deep affliction, and the loved ones left behind should remember that Bertha has gone to a happier home to await their coming.

"There is no death; what seems so is transition."

This life of mortal breath is but a suburb of the life elysian, Whose portal we call death."

Her remains were followed to the grave by all the Academy scholars in a body, and the sight was indeed an imposing and sorrowful one.

WOLFE COUNTY.

Campton Courteney.

Circuit Court adjourned Saturday morning after a two weeks' session of busy work. While the docket was not filled up with a category of crimes of great magnitude; yet an examination of our criminal docket will reveal the fact that our county is not free from lawlessness. There were only three convictions in felony cases. Lee Brown, for train wrecking, three years in the penitentiary; Samuel Faulkner, forgery, two years, and the same for hog stealing, one year. Sheriff Hanks left here Saturday afternoon to convey Brown and Faulkner to Frankfort. There was a large number of convictions in misdemeanor cases, and as but few fines were paid or levied, our jail was filled almost to its utmost capacity by those found guilty of misdemeanors. Our grand jury returned about the usual number of indictments, among them, I believe, were six where the charge was a felony. They are as follows: Wm. Taylor, forgery; Elliott Tolson, hog stealing; Robert Athey, burglary; Wm. Lee Smith and Martha E. Ross, grand larceny; Wm. Lee Smith, obtaining money under false pretense, and Frank Patton, murder. All of the parties have been arrested, and all are in jail except Patton and Taylor, who have executed bond. Patton was admitted to bail in the sum of $1,500. Judge Lilly presided with his usual dignity, and all those who attend his courts cannot fail to recognize the fact that he is by no means in sympathy with crime, and extends but little mercy to the criminal. He tries to drive home to them the truthfulness of the scriptural adage, that "the way of the transgressor is hard." On account of ill health, our able and efficient Commonwealth's Attorney, J. P. Marrs, was not in attendance at this term of Court, and Judge Lilly appointed Thomas C. Johnson as Commonwealth's Attorney pro tem. He performed the duties of the place in a manner eminently satisfactory both to himself and his many friends.

G. T. Center is now on a trip to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where he went to close a deal with some parties about a large log and lumber contract. If Mr. Center succeeds in making this deal the logging business will be revived again on Red river and its tributaries, but perhaps in a stricter and more business way than ever before. It is the sincere wish of all who know Mr. Center that he may renew his business in all of its former splendor, and that it may be unattested by anything unpleasant or unprofitable.

W. F. Elkins, Isaac Elkins, David Hogg and C. C. Williams are slowly but surely making their arrangements to go to seek their fortunes in the Lone Star State about the last of February. They have all purchased farms in Texas. If their reports of the country be true, and we have no reason to discredit their statements, they are making a happy exchange. It is true that they will labor under some disadvantages, but in most respects that country far surpasses this portion of Kentucky.

Died, on yesterday (Sunday) a little boy that had been adopted by Walter Dean. The child was only about four months old, and was given birth to by a strange woman who chanced to drop in at Deane's house, and whose name Deane did not know. The woman left Deane's shortly after the birth of the child, leaving the child in his care, and has not been heard of since. Dean then adopted the child and has been caring for it since that time. Its ailment was grip.

J. B. Gilley, one of the members of the late grand jury, was taken suddenly ill in the grand jury room on last Saturday morning, and it was not until physicians had been summoned, and he given medical aid, that he was able to get away from the grand jury room and get to a house where he could be cared for. He partially recovered Saturday evening, sufficiently so that he was able to get to his home about one and one-half miles from town.

Bro. Savage occupied his pulpit again Sunday after an absence of several weeks caused by his protracted illness. Bro. Savage is a good man, an able preacher, an earnest and zealous worker, and with the co-operation of the church, his year's work at this place could be and will be crowned with success.

The County Board of Supervisors completed their work of supervising on Saturday last, and turned over their book to the County Clerk, who will proceed at once to copy same for the Auditor of Public Accounts, and also for the Sheriff. The Board made but few changes in the way of raising lists.

Murried, on Saturday, the 23d inst., at the residence of the bride's father, C. H. Garrison, Mr. Lee McPherson of Stillwater, to Miss Susan Garrison, Rev. Sylvester Haulsey officiating.

Mr. Wells and wife, of Morgan county, were visiting relatives and friends at this place the past week. Mrs. Wells is a sister to Mrs. David Hogg, of this place.

W. F. Elkins, we learn, has rented his farm and residence to Elijah Collins, of Bear Pen Creek, who will move to the property as soon as Mr. Elkins vacates it.

Capt. Roberts and P. R. Phillips, both of whom are representatives of business firms of Louisville, were in town Friday night, guests of the Combs House.

Grip is raging in Campton and vicinity to an alarming extent. But few are escaping its tenacious hold.

Common Pleas Court begins here on the 9th of February.

Jan. 25, 1892. AVIS.

ANOTHER CORRESPONDENT.

I noticed in last week's issue of THE HERALD an explanatory epistle, written by David Hogg, for the benefit of C. C. Williams, stating that he (Williams) never said that Kentucky was the best State in the Union, and Wolfe the best county in the State. Well, Mr. Williams didn't exactly state the fact by words, but I was judging from his actions. I understand he has given out the idea of moving to Texas. Actions, you know, speak louder than words.

Jacob B. Fulk, who has a large contract getting out railroad ties on the K. U., came home Saturday evening and started to school this morning to Prof. Bowman.

Campton boasts of the finest business house in Eastern Kentucky, which is G. T. Centers' brick store.

There are now over one hundred pupils attending the Campton Normal and Business College.

A young forger worked the Hopkinsville banks for $65 each and escaped.

Johnson county, like Greenup, will ask the Legislature to repeal its special road law.

While resisting arrest, Robert Mansfield was fatally shot by the City Marshal of Sturgis, Ky.

The Eckstein Norton Colored University, located at Cane Springs, Bullitt county, was burned on the 25th inst.

The Governor sent to the Senate the nomination of Nicholas McDowell, of Boyle, to be Commissioner of Agriculture.

The Boone Paper Company, of Louisville, has gone into liquidation, and will close up its business within the next week.

Gov. Brown has appointed Nicholas McDowell, of Danville, to supersede Chas. Y. Wilson as Commissioner of Agriculture.

The contest over the office of postmaster at Paducah has been settled by the confirmation of the appointment of Capt. Ed Farley.

There has not been a murder in Johnson county for forty years, and there is not a drop of liquor of any kind sold in the county.

William Puckett, sentenced to be hanged in Estill county February 5, is said to be dying, and the Governor will be asked to grant a respite of thirty days.

Daviess county has a $10,000 surplus in the treasury, left over from the tax collected to pay its railroad debt. The debt is all paid, and the city of Owensboro wants a division.

A clay has been found at Worrall's Mountain, on the Owensboro and Falls of Rough railroad, that makes a fine vitrified brick. A company has been formed to start a brick plant.

Hopkinsville Kentuckian: The polls for 1892 in Christian county are 7,000, a decrease of 170 from 1891. This decrease is owing to the large number of colored people who have left the county for Kansas, Oklahoma and other places.

The Lexington Gazette is one of the few papers in the State which oppose an appropriation for a Kentucky display at the World's Fair. The Gazette thinks it would be folly to throw away money for what it thinks would chiefly benefit "the Republican city of Chicago."

The new Constitution was punctured once more when the Attorney General decided that the Sergeant-at-Arms, Doorkeeper, Cloak-room keeper and messengers of the Senate and House are not officers of the State, but simply employees of the General Assembly. The question came up over free railroad passes.

The Revisory Commission's suggestions in relation to the new revenue law will encounter the solid opposition of the Sheriffs of the State wherever the interests of those officials are involved. It has been estimated that the adoption of the proposed system will save the State $200,000 in commissions for collecting taxes alone.

The Frankfort Capital, commenting on some observations in the Owensboro Inquirer on the effect of official life at Frankfort on young men, concluded that the bite of the political tarantula was a dangerous poison and that a young man had better keep out of it, if he has even half a chance in some independent occupation.

Judge Sims has secured the pardon of Wm. Grubbs, who was sent up from Trigg county upon the testimony of a negro girl on a charge of rape. He was sentenced for twelve years, and had served three. Judge Sims defended him at the trial, and always believed his client innocent. Grubbs comes of a good family, and has a wife and several children.

W. A. Perkins, of Shelby county, sold last week in Louisville two hogheads of Burley leaf and lugs, the leaf at $26.50 and the lugs at $18. George Moore, of the same county, sold his crop of 10,000 pounds, at home, at $16. Thos. Medden and Meredith Puckett, also of the same county, raised 3,558 pounds on 1 1/2 acres of ground, and sold at home for $402.38.

If Kentucky should not make any other display at the World's Fair, it should file as an explanatory exhibit the last Legislature, whose immovable determination to make a play to the galleries by reducing taxes in the face of unanswerable reasons to the contrary would be responsible for the State's absence from that gathering of the nations. —Courier-Journal.

It is said that the Judiciary Committee of the Legislature fails to find any authority by which the Attorney General can begin proceedings against the lotteries of the State, in accordance with the Goebel resolution, to that effect, recently adopted. Chairman Simms thinks it will first be necessary to begin proceedings after indictment in the Circuit Courts.

A big sale of fine whiskey has been made to Dant & Carter, of Louisville. They bought 6,300 barrels of J. P. Rippey whiskey, the entire crop of 1891 and 1892, for a sum said to aggregate about $100,000. The Rippey whiskey is a fine sour-mash whiskey made in Anderson county. This is one of the biggest whiskey transactions in Kentucky whiskey that has taken place for a long time.

It is not thought the Governor will disturb himself about the Railroad Commission appointments for several months to come. Two men, Woodson and McChord, it is tacitly understood, have been agreed upon. In selecting the third, the Governor will suit his convenience, and he may defer, if it is not too long, until he sees what character of duties this Legislature is going to require of the Commission before he rounds out the trio.

Hugh Gaines, the City Treasurer of Frankfort, is missing. He has not been seen in Frankfort since Tuesday. His accounts are just $1,800 short and crooked work is seriously feared, especially as treasurers are particularly liable to temptation in the Capitol City. He has been treasurer about a year and was re-elected a week or so ago. He is a young man, being only the age for voting, and is a son of W. T. Gaines, of Frankfort. C. E. Haine, Fayette Hewitt and John W. Gaines are on his bond which amounts to $25,000.

"The geological survey in Kentucky should be continued," says the Jackson Hustler. "The oft repeated statement that it has done no good is not correct. The reports of the State Geologist have given to the world information concerning our coal fields that has attracted millions of capital to our State. These reports not only give information that would not be otherwise obtained, but it comes with official endorsement which adds greatly to its weight. We are not posted as to the management of the survey, but with our vast undeveloped resources, to shut down on appropriations at this juncture would be, to our minds, penny-wise and pound foolish."

If so, you can get something better than dollars from us. The completion of the K. U. R. R. to Jackson has cut us off from a large wholesale trade heretofore had by us in several counties east, and left on our hands an immense stock of goods, which we are compelled to unload, and in order to do so we are determined to make prices do the work, prices which will make our patrons happy and make competition howl. We offer to Country Merchants extra inducements, and guarantee to them lower prices than they ever got before. We are overstocked and must unload.
